

Solomon Islands Immersion 2009

ST GREGORY'S COLLEGE CAMPBELLTOWN

2009

The Four students that embarked on the Solomon Islands immersion trip from St Gregory's college were a little unsure as to what they would find on arrival at Vanga Point.

the newly constructed teacher's residences, painting rooms, knocking down and rebuilding the wall in the kitchen.

We were surprised at the simplicity of their lives and further impressed by the amount of joy that they found within these simple things, whether it would be spending time with their friends or making toys out of materials found around their homes. They never ceased to have a smile on their face and never had a bad thing to say to anyone.

But their uncertainties soon turned into an enjoyable experience that will never be forgotten. While on their 2 week trip they partook in many activities such as repairing the Marist's fleet of canoes, electrical work in

The boys through these experiences were able to witness the true sense of the Marist family spirit that is found in the people of the Solomon Islands. This realisation of the Marist family that we witnessed on our immersion trip allowed us to fully understand that we all belong to one larger family, we all have something in common even though we come from different parts of the world speak different languages and look very different, this Marist spirit that we were able to witness the true meaning of the wider Marist Family.
